Special Issue on the
Advanced Optimization for Power Systems

The IEEE Smart Grid invites you to submit an article (800-1000 words) for the August 2018 special issue of the eNewsletter on Advanced Optimization for Power Systems.

Topics of interest could include but are not limited to:

- Review of recent theoretical optimization advances that could be valuable in the field
- Distributed and decentralized approaches
- Hardware requirements for current methods and special computer architectures
- Review of current optimization practices and practices of system operators, aggregators, etc.
- Benchmarks for optimization techniques and paths towards standardization of characteristics, performance and assessment metrics/methods
